Fully integrated management software for cleaning contractors

FULLY INTEGRATED SOFTWARE FOR CLEANING CONTRACTORS

Unlock the profit potential of your company by using technology to automate and speed up everyday processes. Release your field management to look after staff and clients, rather than waste time on administration.

TemplaCMS helps you budget, gives you clear visibility of all expenditure, supports your admin, operations and sales teams in their roles and reassures clients that you are serious about customer service.

Five major frustrations faced by cleaning contractors:

- 1 Lack of budget control, especially within pay, holiday, national insurance and materials usage
- 2 Unable to analyse profitability at task, site or client level
- 3 Unwieldy and unreliable processes for managing and invoicing ad hoc work and consumables
- 4 Duplication as a result of poor integration with accounts packages or reliance on MS-Excel
- 5 Poor implementation of quality audits and ineffective presentation of KPIs to clients

How does TemplaCMS integrated software address these and other challenges?

The fundamental issue at the root of these problems is multiple unconnected systems. With many systems used to store data and manage a cleaning company's different business processes, it is often difficult to guarantee the accurate completion of transactions or to effectively analyse their results.

TemplaCMS resolves this problem by centralising all contract data in a single database. The TemplaCMS business modules then use this single integrated data resource to process and analyse your internal and external transactions in a consistent way, using the single accurate version of the data. One version of the truth!

↓ The diagram shows how different stakeholders interact with the software. A built-in document management and workflow system allows users to perform, distribute and authorise the many routine tasks necessary to meet the daily demands of your company and clients.

Five ways to increase profit with TemplaCMS

- 1 Wages and budgets brought under full control
- 2 Accurate analysis of non-profitable contracts or tasks
- 3 Ad-hoc work and rechargeable consumables always invoiced correctly
- 4 Integrated system reduces admin time, transaction errors and stationery costs
- 5 Proactively managed quality audits and KPI production improves service delivery and contract retention

A £12m turnover, south east based client returned their whole investment in CMS in year 1 through savings gained implementing CMS e-timesheets alone.

Nicki Francis, Group FD – Churchill Group

Churchill

Three years ago our growth plans took on another level, but our back office systems had been struggling for ages. Payroll was a huge admin drain taking days to complete. Selecting TemplaCMS at the time has proven to be the right decision, helping us move forward with its ability to adapt to our ever changing group-wide requirements in cleaning, security, ambulance make ready, water hygiene and catering. With our volumes, its automation and exception management have been vital and the financial controls it delivers are exemplary in helping us manage the business. Payroll takes significantly less time, our employee count has doubled, whilst our admin team headcount has remained the same. Plus we have made vast improvements within admin and operations using other aspects of the system.

We wanted a budgeting and analysis capability that would actually allow us to figure out which customers were profitable. In the past it was like driving through fog with the headlights off. It was alright when we were travelling at 5mph, but now we are travelling at 70mph we need to see more clearly! The Board had to think hard about the search for an integrated software system to run all the company's key business processes.

We realised that we needed much better visibility of our key cost elements, notably payroll, and greater flexibility to analyse our business the way we want, both of which TemplaCMS delivers as part of its core system.
